Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make service unaffordable for seniors like me.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee.

I believe this fund is not needed anyway and I would like to see an accounting of the monies collected and how they were, and are, being spent. I can't believe that anyone in America that wants a phone can not afford one.

Keep the USF Fair and not a socialist country.

Sincerely,

William Gore
